

Finding Full Text Articles in EndNote Using the OpenURL and Authentication Links

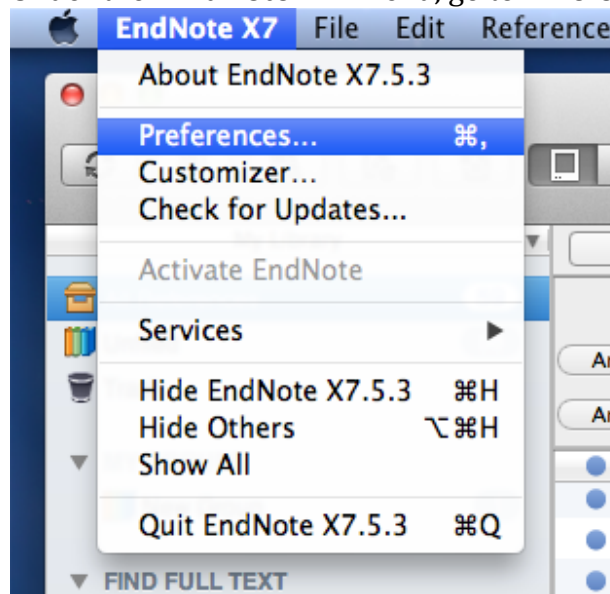

Boston University Alumni Medical Library

Part 1: Configuring EndNote

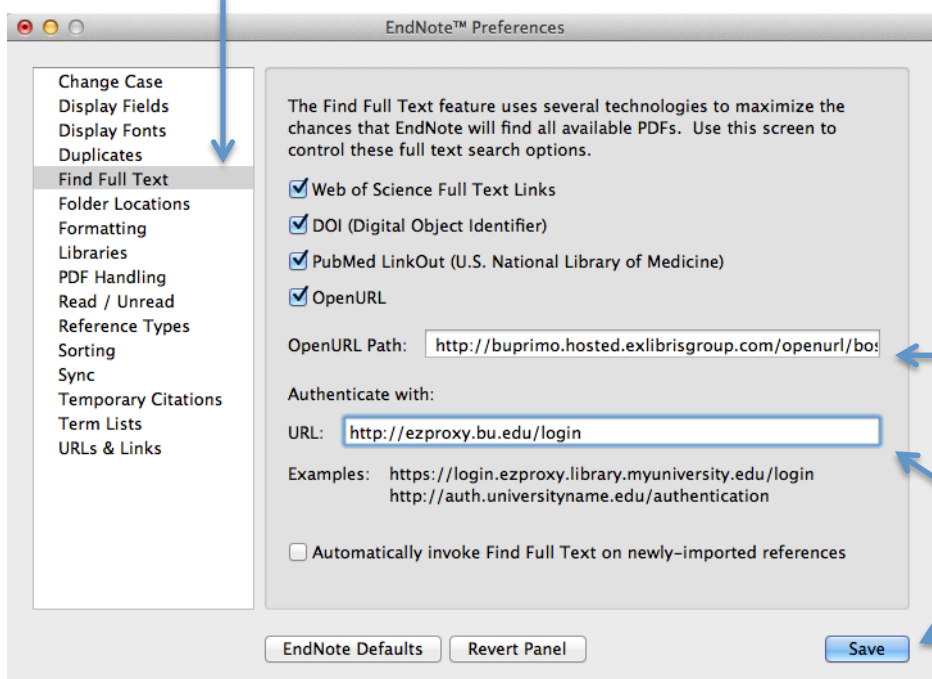

Please note: your configuration settings may be different based on the version of EndNote you have. These instructions are based on EndNote X7.

Open EndNote.

Under the “EndNote X7” menu, go to “Preferences”

Click on “Find Full Text”

Make sure all the boxes are checked off and enter the following links:

OpenURL Path:
<http://buprimo.hosted.exlibrisgroup.com/openurl/bosu/BU>

Authenticate with:
URL: <http://ezproxy.bu.edu/login>

Click SAVE before closing the Preferences window.

Part 2: Finding Full Text Articles

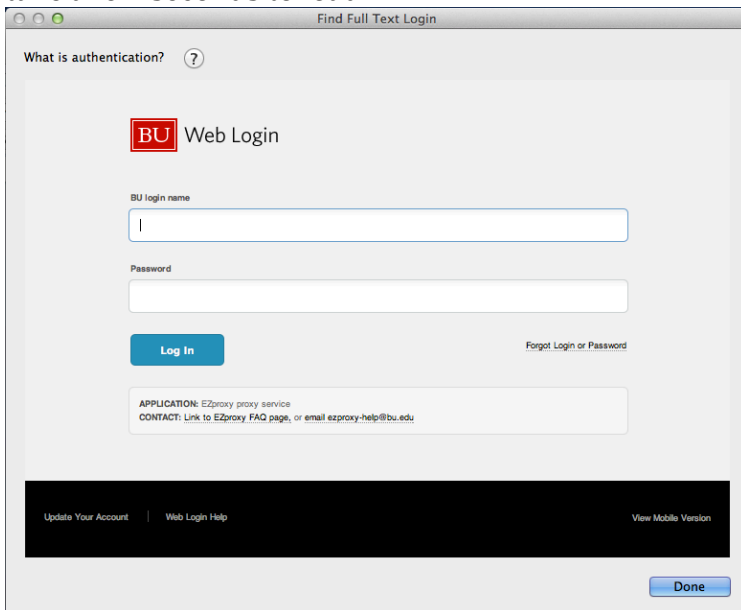

Adding the OpenURL and Authentication links will allow you to search for the full text of articles from within EndNote.

First you will need to authenticate your access.

Go to “References” then “Find Full Text”

Click on “Authenticate.” A new window will pop up and the BU Login page will appear. It may take a few seconds to load.

Enter your BU Login Name and Password. Once you log in, and the EZProzy page appears, you can click “Done”

Select the citations you would like to find full text for. You can select one or multiple. You can either right click on the citation (or group of citations) OR go back to the “References” menu to bring up the “Find Full Text” menu again. Select “Find Full Text...”

NOTE: If the Authentication window pops up again, login and hit “Continue.”

The “Find Full Text” menu on the sidebar of Endnote will show the progress of the full text search. If the full text for that citation can be found, a paperclip will appear next to the citation and the article will become viewable in the sidebar.
